Edward Geary Lansdale (February 6, 1908 – February 23, 1987) was a United States Air Force officer who served as the second head of the Central Intelligence Agency and was awarded the Medal of Honor. He was an early proponent of more aggressive U.S. actions in the Cold War.

Figure 1: Images in this figure are reproduced in accordance with the following licensing information. The original authors of the images do not necessarily endorse this work or the opinions expressed in it. Copyright information is given left-to-right. Wikipedia: “hockey” – Dan4th Nicholas (CC BY 2.0); Leech44 (CC BY 3.0); Usasoccer2010 (CC BY-SA 3.0). All “software” images derive from software licensed under GNU GPL v3; screenshot used under fair use. “Australia” – Toby Hudson (CC BY-SA 3.0); public domain; public domain. “linguistics” – Suasysar (public domain); USDA (public domain); Rama (CC BY-SA 3.0); public domain; public domain. “bodybuilder” – Kent (SSCusp) (CC BY-NC-ND 2.0); Frank Carroll (CC BY-NC-SA 2.0); Kent (SSCusp) (CC BY-NC-ND 2.0) “weird” – waferboard (CC BY 2.0); jaci XIII (CC BY-NC-SA 2.0); Ozzy Delaney (CC BY 2.0). “caption” – Toby Hudson (CC BY-SA 3.0); Karen Dorsett (CC BY-ND 2.0); Vearl Brown (CC BY-NC 2.0). “antarctica” – Frank Carroll (CC BY-NC-SA 2.0); Tom Lin (CC BY-NC-ND 2.0); Leo Reynolds (CC BY-NC-SA 2.0).

Figure 2: Images in this figure are reproduced in accordance with the following licensing information. The original authors of the images do not necessarily endorse this work or the opinions expressed in it. J. Michel (aka: Mitch) Carriere (CC BY-NC-ND 2.0)

Figure 3: Images in this figure are reproduced in accordance with the following licensing information. The original authors of the images do not necessarily endorse this work or the opinions expressed in it. Wiki – US Air Force (public domain); Fairsing (public domain). The BL images are also public domain, and were originally released by the british library.